Ronni Hollingshead 5.0 out of 5 stars. It was introduced at the January 2002 North American International Auto Show, but was not put into production until 2004. Extensive wind tunnel testing was used in styling the exterior of the Ram SRT10. This is the second time that Dodge has put a Viper engine into a Ram pickup. At the 1996 Chicago Auto Show, Dodge introduced a concept Dodge Ram with a Viper Generation 2 engine, but it was not put into production. The cast aluminum cylinder block had cast iron liners and crossbolted main caps. The bore and stroke had been increased over previous Viper models.

Compression ratio, firing order, rod length, block height and block length were unchanged from the second generation Viper engine. The regular cab featured a Tremec T56 transmission, while the Quad Cab utilized a 48RE fourspeed automatic transmission modified from the Ram Heavy Duty transmission. Both regular cab and Quad Cab used a Dana 60 rear axle. A fully hydroformed Dodge Ram frame was used in conjunction with a custom tuned suspension, lowering the Ram SRT10s ride height one inch in the front and 2.5 inches in the rear. An additional 5th shock was used on the rear axle to prevent wheel hop during wheelspin. Large chrome SRT10 logos were mounted to the driver and passenger side doors and rear tailgate right side on the Quad cab and Single Cab 2005 models replaced in 2006 by smaller chrome and red SRT10 logo badges. All models were outfitted with large molded kicker panels painted to match body color. Another exterior feature was a tonneau cover with an attached spoiler that was supposed to come standard on the 2005 Quad Cab version and all 2006 models, but due to manufacturing problems was not installed on nearly half of the Ram SRT10s intended. In addition to style, the spoiler also helped with air flow and provided a reduction in lift and drag. The Ram SRT10 had a bed size of 6 ft 3 in 1.91 m, giving the regular cab an overall length of 17 ft 7 in 5.36 m, and 19 ft 2 in 5.84 m overall length for the Quad Cab. The doors on both the Standard cab and Quad had silver accents along the middle above the arm rest. It also came with a leather trimmed steering wheel and with heavily bolstered racing derived suedette trimmed charcoal leather seats. The center stack was adorned with silver trim, and a silver trim strip with the SRT10 logo resided under the passengerside air bag cover. Taking a cue from the Dodge Viper, the Ram SRT10 came with a red start button on the dash.

The manual transmission regular cab featured a Hurst shift lever, which sprouted from a silver metal shift bezel and was fitted with a Viper shift knob. Aluminum performance inspired pedals replaced the stock setup. The gauge cluster featured satin silverfaced gauges and Viper font and graphics. The speedometer and tachometer were recalibrated to match the Ram SRT10s increased performance. The redesigned 2006 Ram SRT10 came in Mineral Gray Metallic, Inferno Red Crystal Pearl Coat, Brilliant Black Crystal Clear Coat, Flame Red Clear Coat and Black Clear Coat. Two NASCAR inspired brake cooling ducts integrated into the front fascia provide cooling for the Ram SRT10s brakes. The new Quad Cab was aimed at the performance truck enthusiast who wanted a performance pickup, but not at the expense of room for passengers and towing capacity. The Dodge Ram SRT10 Quad Cab was fitted with a 4.56 final drive gear ratio to improve low end acceleration and was rated at 7,500 lb 3,402 kg towing capacity. A bodycolor aluminum tonneau cover with an aerodynamic spoiler came standard on the Quad Cab. The Quad Cab was only offered with a 4 speed automatic transmission, a 48RE borrowed from the Ram Heavy Duty with the Cummins ISB turbo diesel. The 48RE was rated to handle up to 700 lbft 949 Nm of torque. Where people were able to enter a raffle, and only the winners of the raffle were able to purchase the vehicle, but, of course the winners were able to sell them again to a third party. Its paint scheme was white rally stripes on Electric Blue. Engine was also signed by Wolfgang Bernhard, Chrysler Groups former Chief Operating Officer. Available as a 2004 model. 50 of the VCA Edition trucks were manual transmission. 2 were converted to Automatic transmissions to be Pace Vehicles. The whereabouts of these two RAM SRT10s is unknown and presumed decommissioned by FCA. Also came with special Yellow Fever Edition badges and a serialized Yellow Fever dash plaque. Available as a 2005 model.

Interior enhancements included blue stitching on the seats, shift boot, shift knob and steering wheel. Floor mats were embroidered in matching stitching with the SRT10 logo. In addition, the Commemorative Edition included standard polished wheels, brushed aluminum scuff plates, and a hard tonneau cover. Available as a 2005 model. FCA Records show a total of 201 painted White with Blue Stripes Available as a 2006 model. Please help improve this article by adding citations to reliable sources.
