In this guide, we will cover all the Hunter DPS best in slot options for every phase of WoW Classic and content type. With our WoW Classic Best in Slot lists, we will help you understand what items you should need on in Dungeons, what quests to do for rewards at level 60, and what are the best items to craft. We will cover the best gear to acquire for brandnew level 60 Hunters collecting preraid BiS sets, as well as the best gear from all available raids including Molten Core and Blackwing Lair. We also offer a look at Best in Slot gear coming in future phases, for players that wish to prepare in advance.

While this page emphasizes gear to utilize in different WoW Classic PvE situations, we also provide gear guides for Hunter Leveling and Hunter PvP. Looking for DPS Hunter PreRaid BiS. Our Hunter DPS PreRaid Best in Slot gear page will explain the best items from dungeons, reputations, crafting, and early PvP to acquire so you are as effective as possible before stepping foot in your first raid. Classic Hunter PreRaid BiS Classic Dungeons Hunter DPS Molten Core Best in Slot Gear BiS WoW Classic Molten Core and Onyxias Lair are the two earliest and easiest raids in WoW Classic, added at Phase 1 launch. Classic Hunter DPS Molten Core BiS Molten Core Loot Hunter DPS Blackwing Lair Best in Slot Gear BiS WoW Classic Blackwing Lair is the tier 2 raid that follows up after Molten Core, added with Phase 3 launch. Classic Hunter DPS Blackwing Classic Hunter DPS PvP BiS Classic Hunter DPS PvP Guide Hunter DPS Fire Resistance Gear WoW Classic Fire Resistance, a stat which mitigates incoming magical fire damage, is very helpful for some Phase 1 Classic WoW encounters in Molten Core and Onyxia, especially if you need additional survivability. Below you will find the best Fire Resistance gear obtainable outside of Molten Core, so you can farm and equip the gear as you progress through the raid. Do keep in mind that much of the preraid Fire Resistance gear is lacking in other stats, so while your survivability may increase, your raid performance otherwise will decrease. We will create additional gear lists for other types of resistances as more raids unlock. Classic Hunter DPS Fire Resistance Gear Hunter DPS Nature Resistance Gear WoW Classic Nature resistance becomes useful starting in Phase 5 of Classic due to AhnQiraj bosses. Equipping items with Nature resistance reduces the nature damage you take, which is very handful on bosses with predominant Nature damage. Unlike Fire Resistance, there aren't many items that provide Nature Resistance. Below you will find a list of items with Nature Resistance gear obtainable, so you can farm and equip the gear as you progress through raids when necessary. Do keep in mind that many pieces that offer resistance statuses lack offensive ones, meaning you are trading throughput for survivability. Hunters can equip many different weapons, and the joke is that all weapons are Hunter weapons. Melee weapons are mainly stat sticks for Hunters, so be mindful when rolling on drops that would be more impactful for a melee DPS. Obtaining this weapon is quite a challenge, so we have created a detailed guide walkthrough Obtaining Rhokdelar in WoW Classic Ancient Petrified Leaf Guide For Hunters. Classic Hunter Tier Set Bonuses In WoW Classic, every class has access to both Dungeon and Tier sets, throughout their character progression.

Sets are pieces of equipment that, when equipped together, provide extra benefits to your character. These sets also may require multiple pieces of armor to be equipped, with some requiring up to eight different pieces simultaneously to provide different benefits. In this section, we will explore these sets for Hunters, discussing their viability and how important is to acquire them in the long scheme of gearing. The availability of these sets depends on the current Phase. Looking to learn more about hunter gear sets. Check out our Hunter Armor Sets Guide. There is no Hit Rating, no Crit Rating, and only the set bonuses are pretty bad. The set has a lot of spirit and int on it in place of your primary stats too. A couple of pieces like the boots or the wrists can be decent but aren't as good as your preraid BiS pieces. By Phase 5, this is implemented purely as a catchup set for players who are gearing up alts or late to the Classic WoW party. Much like Beaststalker Armor, while having improved stats, is not as good as your other preBiS items. The itemization has been enhanced by removing spirit, but there is still a lot of intellect taking up a lot of the stat weights on these items. The set bonuses are also not worth investing in. Being that this set is a real pain to get in the first place, I would avoid getting it and opt for your preBiS items which are better and for the most part easier to understand. Like the dungeon sets, it does have some spirit and int, but at the items level, the entire set is going to be an upgrade versus most gear you have on. The set bonuses are good too, providing your pet with more survival, allowing you to possibly spec some points into BM and get their full value because of the increased pet up time. By the end of phase one, you should be striving to have the entire set; it shouldn't be too hard to acquire as there shouldn't be too much competition. You may have potentially obtained these by the time you are in BWL.

The 5 set is an upgraded version of your tier 1 5 set bonus, and the 8set is extremely good whenever you can get lucky enough to proc it on a boss. It increases yours and any other ranged DPS attack power against the target by 450 for 7 seconds. It lacks much crit and hit chance compared to the pieces you would be replacing from t2. The 5 set bonus, on the other hand, is reasonably good unfortunately not strong enough to put all this gear on and use. It is from Naxxramas in phase 6 and provides some pretty wellrounded stats for hunter. Lots of agility, plenty of hit and crit and a little bit of MP5. The 2set this set offers is strong, and you can start to get rid of your t2 when that becomes available to you. The 4 set buffs you and your pets attack power by 50, which is a nice little damage boost. The later set bonuses on Cryptstalkers provide mana preservation, the 6set giving your ranged critical strikes to restore 50 mana. The 8set reduces the cost of your multi and aimed shots by 20. Best Hunter DPS Utility Items Classic WoW has many items that can be used to aid you in combat, be it to deal more damage, help ensnare or escape from enemies, and even save some gold on repairs if your death is imminent. It can be used to both escape from enemies or save some gold on a durabilityless death. This item can be very useful to run away from enemies or turn the tide of battle in PvP or PvE combat. Not as useful for fleeing as the Magic Dust, but can still stop enemies dead in their tracks to secure you a kill. You can use this to run away from mobs, chase enemies easier and more. For more information on useful utility items, check our Important Utility Items Guide. Using Wowhead to Find Gear Upgrades for Your Classic Hunter The Hunter Best in Slot guide provides top recommendations for your character. However, you may be interested in looking for upgrades on your own, as Classic has many items that provide similar benefits for your character.

Perhaps you are interested in items with a specific effect, or are really unlucky with drops and want to find a good upgrade from quest instead of the recommended one from a dungeon. Classic Wowhead's database offers several powerful tools allowing you to browse all available items in the game, filter them by numerous parameters to narrow results, rank them by best combinations of stats, and create your own personalized gear sets. Item Filters On the Classic Wowhead Item Database, you can browse every single item from Classic WoW. You can further narrow things by their required level, if you're interested in twinkling or leveling upgrades. Phase Availability There are six content phases in Classic WoW, with many pieces of gear coming from PvP, dungeons, or raids in later phases, so we've organized all items by their phases. For example, here's a filter of all Mail Armor added in Phase 5 AhnQiraj. Stats You can filter gear by every stat in Classic WoW, ranging from Primary stats like Agility to defensive ones like Fire Resistance. For example, here's the filter for items that grant Ranged Attack Power and here's the filter for Ranged Weapons with speed 2.8 or higher. Source There are filters for all types of sources, including drops, crafted items, and quests. For example, here's a list of all bows from quests requiring level 30 or higher to equip. Stat Weights Also on the Classic Wowhead Item Database page are Stat Weights, so you can sort filtered lists to place the most beneficial items for your stat preferences at the top of search results. Here's an example of stat weights for Hunter chests. Gear Planner The Classic Gear Planner allows you to create your own gear setup, including enchants and talents that modify stats. You can even name and save the set on Wowhead, to share it with anyone. About the Author Sherro is a veteran member of both the Classic and Retail World of Warcraft communities.

Dwarven Hand Cannon as well seems to be a far reach to be BiS when there's other options that is a better option and much more viable to get, such as Carapace Spine Crossbow Stratholme. Even the Blackcrow from LBRS would be a better option. Also, it's not confirmed that the Sunken Temple class quests will be out during phase 1 and you have a trinket from there listed. Did I see a rogue tier piece in your list hint I did you may not know this, but hunters can't wear rogue tier pieces. This guide might have gotten a 5 or 6 out of 10. Nefarian only started to drop the Tier 2 helmets during Wrath of the Lich King when Onyxia was scaled up to level

80. Also, Drake Fang talisman it's a drop from Ebonroc in BWL, not a quest reward from the books from Dire Maul AGILITY WAS ALWAYS BETTER THAN STR AND RAW ATP and they're less competition for them. My god this is 15 year old information how do you screw this up. Who ever wrote this and whatever editor approved this for wowhead, did you actually read wowhead. you have a listing for BSH where the FIRST POST does the math why dual BSH is better and easier to get than the Dalrends set. Also edited out the negative language to make it a more constructive post rather than a rant. This is the gear I pieced together using their planner TL;DR My gear set has 38AP and 285 mana plus some dodge and armor at the cost of .23% crit. Over their BiS setup OR My gear set would add 56 AP and 285 mana at the cost of .66% crit on the optional gear set.

I'd say my gear setup is comparable if not better but, that's my opinion as I don't have damage comparison only stat comparison. For starters, Mortal shots makes 1% crit 30% more valuable than 1% hit. Great, so you wear all this gear and can hit a target dummy for theoretically more than me, but while you are letting your red pet attack the boss and have your weapon set to auto attack because you went OOM minutes ago, I will still be spamming Aimed shot and criting like a truck. Why you would ever want to take Wyrmtongue Shoulders over Bone Golem Shoulders for one example in a practical dungeon running scenario is completely beyond me. Don't recommend it. The best dual wield stat stick is BSH hands down. Stop putting hunters on a hate list because they read a guide and go that's number one. Here's the gearset in Wowhead's planner, and here's what I've been using pre-raid. This guide's gearset sacrifices 600 mana, 500 armor and 100 health for 5 more DPS and 1% more crit. It just doesn't work. The gear that's being used is the old version. How this guy thought Ashkandi is so good for a hunter, just because it's an epic off Nef, is beyond me. Barb blade a BLUE beats it. Ashkandi has only 24 more AP, but loses 1% crit. PFT! 1x 1h is way better now anyway given the enchants out. Edit a couple blue options I was referring to are the Sentinels Blade from pvp rep, and the axe from Maleki in UD strath. That doesn't make any sense. Some guilds really dislike the fact that 1 or 2 hunters take up debuff slots with the proc and the additional damage is minimal if there are only 1 or 2 hunters that can take advantage from it. I understand that with 5 hunters all rocking full T2 it has a high uptime and the benefit is great, but for single hunters there are gearsets with significantly higher personal stats. I had some concern when I placed the order about whether or not you could route the fan motor pull chain and the light pull chain through this light fixture. None of the photos or reader comments seemed to address that question. The answer is YES, it does accommodate both the motor and light pull chains. Mine also came with a total of 6 cover plates that are mounted between the glass bowl and the final nut that holds the bowl onto the fixture. The cover plates came in 3 different finishes, polished brass, antique brass. The reason for the two options is that this light kit can be mounted on a fan, but it can also be mounted as a ceiling light fixture without a fan, or if a fan is located high up and controlled only by a wall switch you might not need a fan motor pull chain.

The kit also included three finial nuts, one in bright brass, one antique brass, and one oiled bronze. All three finial nuts had a hole in the center for the light pull chain. The instruction manual is not very well written, but the installation was not all that difficult. I mounted this Hunter light kit on a fan made by a another manufacturer, Quorum International, so the switch housing cover plate that came with the light kit was not the right size for my fan. That was not a problem however, I simply unscrewed the Hunter switch housing cover plate and screwed the long threaded rod of the light fixture directly into the center hole on the existing switch housing cover plate on my fan. I think that approach should work with almost any fan that accepts a standard ceiling fan light kit. My Quorum fan also had some plastic connectors on the light kit electrical leads, and the Hunter light kit simply has wire leads without any special connectors. No problem, I simply cut the plastic connectors off of the two wires in the fan, stripped the ends of those wires, and then used wire nuts supplied with the light kit to connect the fan leads to the light kit leads. One thing to watch for when installing the motor pull chain. There is a hole with a plastic bushing in a white plate that supports the top of the glass bowl of the light kit. You need to be sure to thread the fan motor pull chain through that hole before you mount the glass bowl, or the chain will get pinched between the glass and that white support plate. You should also rotate the white plate so that the hole with the bushing is lined up with the place where the motor pull chain comes out of the fan, otherwise the motor chain will be pulling at an angle and may tend to rotate the light fixture when you pull on it. The instructions unfortunately do not tell you anything about routing the motor pull chain.
